The Old Cherry Farm.

"Seeh a reediklis thing to do !" declared Aunt Lurainey Mulford. "I sh'u'd say Hazel wasn't in her sane senses !"

The Mulford connection, far and near, were terribly exercised over the fact that Hazel Heartherton had invested six hundred for the old Cherry Farm.

"A worn-out old place that ain't wuth shucks !" they asserted.

When Uncle Hezekiah Mulford died, leaving a thousand dollars apiece to each of his two unmarried nieces, the two girls were looked upon as heiresses by the numerous kin-folk living in and around the little village of Dripping Springs.

But when Hazel, in spite of all opposition, persisted in investing six hundred dollars of her legacy in the farm, as already stated, and invited Aunt Comfort Mulford to live with her, their discontent knew no bounds.

"She might of invested her money safe with me," complained Uncle Zeke, "an' I'd of give her five per cent. intrust on it. She could o' lived good on that ; but no, she must go an' spend her money fust thing 'fore Uncle Hezekiah was fairly cold in his grave."

"That ole place won't grow nothin' but pusley and cockle-burrs," groaned Aunt Lurainey. "She'll starve to death on it, shore."

"It'll be a jedgement on her, if she does," declared Uncle Zeke, grimly shaking his head as he lighted his cob-pipe with a coal from the fire-place.

And the rest of the kin-folks agreed with him, and prophesied all manner of ill-fortune for Hazel, All, that is, with the exceptien of Cousin John Mulford and his wife, Arvilla.

They upheld her in her unpopular proceeding. Cousin John even went and mended the roof of the leaky but picturesque little cottage, which stood on a grassy billside, sheltered by the sweeping branches of half a dozen or more black heart cherry trees which had given the place its name.

"It's a pretty place," averred Cousin John, "An' Hazel will have a home there if she ain't got nothin' else. Her an' Aunt Comfort 'll live as happy as cows in a clover-field."

But the other relatives shook their heads and drew long faces over Hazel's future prospects.

"She might of bought a lot in town, if she must have proppity," they grumbled.

But Hazel only laughed at their forebodings.

"I never had a home of my own," she said, "and I guess the old place will support me and Aunt Comfort as well as the robins that live up in the cherry trees."

And when the three tiny rooms of the little cottage were scoured as clean as soap and water could make them, the walls newly whitened, and the rooms filled with the pretty household furniture Hazel had bought, and which Cousin John brought out with his ox team, the young mistress of Cherry farm felt a serene content in her possessions that all the ill-natured forebodings of the Mulford clan failed to disturb.

"Thar you air, Hazel—snug as a bug in a rug !" said Cousin John, mopping his face with his red cotton handkerchief, as he startsd the lumbering oxen on their homeward way. "An' when you git yer plunder all put to rights, me an' Arvilly'll come an' make you a visit."

"Be sure you do," cried Hazel, brightly. "And when the cherries are ripe, Arvilla can have all she wants to put up."

Melzena Mulford, Uncle Hezekiah's other legatee, was no less loud in her denunciation of Hazel's investment.

"How does she ever expect to git married I'd like to know," she commented, "away off in that lonely place, with nobody but poky Aunt Comfort for company ? But I don't care, I'm sure, if she wants to make an old maid of herself. I'm a-goin to have the good of my money while I'm young."

She accordingly indulged herself in the purchase of numerous and expensive dresses and gew-gaws, banged and frizzed her hair in the latest style, carried a scarlet parasol in her village walks and after enjoying the triumph of exhibiting herself and her new possessions to the inhabitants of Dripping Springs, she announced her intention of going to the seashore for the summer.

"Going a-husband hunting," declared the gossips. "There ain't nobody good enough for her in Dripping Springs !"

But if Melzena heard them she paid no heed to their gossip, but packed her big new Saratoga trunk with her new finery, and set out on her journey.

As the weeks passed on, Hazel and Aunt Comfort enjoyed themselves in their new home, in spite of the evil prognostications.

And indeed, though the dissatisfied kinfolk still shook their heads over Hazel and her doings, they were very well pleased to drive out to the farm on summer afternoons, and eat their fill of ripe black-heart cherries, or drink tea from Hazel's flowered-china teacup ; or to spend the day, and dine on fried chicken, green peas, new potatoes and other early vegetables, raised by the industry of Hazel and Aunt Comfort, with a little help from Cousin John and his hired hand, Mike.

* * * * * * * * *

"Married ? No ; nor I don't never expect to be," solemnly asserted Mr. Nicholas Bycroft, as he fastened the hasp of his trunk, and took down his breech loadin rifle to see that it was in order.

For Mr. Nicholas was making final preparations for his journey to Texas, where he was going into stock-raising on a cattle ranch of several hundred acres.

"Get married, indeed !" he continued muttering to himself. "There ain't more'n one girl in a hundred I'd have, an' like as not that one wouldn't have me. If there was a girl, now, that thought of anything beside a-curling her hair and dressing herself up in silks and furbelows, an' had any idee of what a home ought to be, I dun know but I might— But, pshaw ! if there is any sich girls, I've never come across 'em and never expect to. I'll be an old bachelor and live by myself, like Uncle Tom."

* * * * * * * * *

"Bless me, Hazel," cried Aunt Comfort, one bright summer morning, "here's your Cousin John an' Arvilly a-comin out in the spring wagon, an' a man with 'em. Who kin it be ? 'Tain't the minister, I know, fur he's more grizzled lookin' an' haint got a pinted mustache like this one."

It was baking-day, and Hazel was in the kitchen, her sleeves rolled up, and her cheeks flushed to a bright damask red.

"I hope the best table-cloth is clean, whoever it is," she returned, peeping into the oven at a pan of cherry-tart, that were almost swimming in their own crimson juice.

The stranger with the "pinted mustache" proved to be Mr. Nicholas Bycroft, who has stopped on his journey to spend a week with his cousin Arvilla, John Mulford's wife.

Mr. Bycroft's visit to the Cherry Farm was by no means his last one ; and for some reason or other, his week's visit stretched to a month, and the month had almost doubled itself, and still he lingered at his cousin's near Dripping Springs.

One summer night he stood with Hazel on the latticed porch at Cherry Cottage, the soft moonbeams flittering down through the scarlet bean vines overhead.

"There ain't another woman in the world I ever wanted to marry, Hazel—only you !" whispered Nicholas, earnestly. "I want a wife that can help me to make a home and to enjoy it after it is made. Think of my big ranch, out in Texas, now. I shall live there a lonely old bachelor all my days, unless you go with me. Say, Hazel, will you go ?"

And so, much to the delight of Cousin John's folks, and the surprise of other relations, the wealthy cattle-rancher carried Hazel off to be mistress of his Texas home.

Aunt Comfort was left possession of Cherry farm, rent free, for the rest of her days ; and here, Melzena Mulford was glad to seek an asylum when she returned from the seashore. with onlv a remnant of her legacy left, and with no prospects of marriage settlements on hand.

Cleveland and Hendricks,

Democratic Candidates

FOR

AND

VICE PRESIDENT.

Noted Men.

Though in democratic America we have no titled rulers, yet nearly every man who has achieved distinction in any walk of life has his sobriquet, by which he is more or less widely known. Especially in this time of statesmen, politicians and soldiers.

These sobriquets are usually applied in recognition of some great achievement or achievements, or else illustrate some personal characteristic of the recipient.

Some of these democratic titles are trivial; others are of importance and form an accepted portion of history and biography.

To begin with let us mention him that was 'first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen,' George Washington, who is so justly called the 'Father of his Country.'

It is well known that instead of this title he might have had that of king, had he chosen ; but his patriotism was of too high an order to listen to such a proposition. Posterity will honor him the more in his choice.

Henry Clay, the man who 'had rather be right than be President,' was known as the 'Great Pacificator,' because of the compromise measures introduced by him in Congress.

These measures pacified the leaders of both fations, and serious difficulty was thereby averted.

Daniel Webster has been called 'the Great Expounder of the Constitution,' and is now often referred to as 'the god-like Daniel,' from his majestic presence.

John C. Calhoun, the Southern statesman, bore the sobriquet of 'the Great Nullifier.'

Thomas Jefferson was well styled 'the Sage of Monticello.' He was a scholar, and a ripe and good one. John Adams, who died upon the same day as Jefferson, and who was closely associaten with him in the early days of the Republic, was a man of great capacity, but personally and politically unpopular. He was called in derision by his neighbors 'the Cuke of Braintree,' from his cold and aristocratic manners.

Andrew Jackson gained the title 'Old Hickory,' from his toughness and obstinance. Though obstinate and very tenacious of his opinions, he was a man of strict integrity and undoubted patriotism.

John Quincy Adams, who served many years in the House of Representatives after being President, was appropriately called 'The Old Man Eloquent.'

Stephen A. Douglas was known as the 'Little Giant.'

William Henry Harrison was sometimes called 'Tippecanoe,' in recognition of his victory at the battle of that name.

Zachary Taylor was termed by his soldiers 'Old Rough and Ready.'

The martyr Lincoln bore through life, and will even bear in history the sobrique of 'Honest Abe.'

How well he deserved it ! Honesty, kindness and simplicity were the most prominent characteristics of the man whose memory the nation honors as that of one of her greatest statesmen and wisest rulers.

General Grant has been styled 'The Silent Man,' and during the war was sometimes called 'Unconditional Surrender' Grant, the initials of these words being the same as those of his name.

General Marion, of Revolutionary fame, nuring his campaign in the South gained the name of 'The Swamp Fox.'

General Anthony Wayne was called 'Mad Anthony,' because of his bravery and impetuosity.

The dashing cavalry commander, Major Henry Lee, became 'Light-Horse Harry.'

During the late civil war the soldiers delighted to call General Joseph Hooker 'Fighting Joe,' while Gen. George H. Thomas will ever be known as the 'Rock of Chickamauga.'

The Confederate general, Thomas J. Jackson, bore a name gained in a somewhat similar manner. At the battle of Bull Run, Gen. Lee, one of the Confederate army, while encouraging his men, pointed to Jackson, saying :

'There stands Jackson, like a stone wall.'

Ever after this he was known as Stonewall Jackson, many believing it to be his real name.

The Last Electoral Vote.

The electorial vote by states in 1880 was as follows :

Garfield—Colorado, 3; Connecticut, 6; California, 1; Illinois, 21; Indiana, 15 ; Iowa, 11; Kansas, 5; Maine, 7; Massachusetts, 13; Michigan, 11; Minnesota, 5; Nebraska, 3; New Hampshire, 5; New York, 35; Ohio, 22; Oregon, 3; Pennsylvania, 29; Rhode Island, 4; Vermont, 5; Wisconsin, 10; total, 214.

Hancock—Alabama, 10; Arkansas, 6; California, 5; Delaware; 3; Florida, 4; Georgia, 11; Kentucky, 12; Louisiana, 8; Maryland, 8; Mississippi, 8; Missouri, 15; Nevada, 3; New Jersey, 9; North Carolina, 10; South Carolina, 7; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 8; Virginia, 11; West Virginia, 5; total, 155.

The Electoral votes of California were divided, Garfield getting 1 and Hancock getting 5. The total popular votes received by each candidate were as follows : Garfield, 4,451,619 ; Hancock, 4,443,207; Weaver, Greenback, 303,910.

Statesmen's Wives.

A Washington letter to the Louisville Courier-Journal says : "It was in order to limit the space which loafers of a most objectionable character used daily to fill in the House gallery several years ago that the House of Representatives decided to set apart certain portions of the gallery to be reserved for those who had cards of admission thereto, given them by the members. One gallery is exclusively for the families of Rrepresentatives, or those whom they and their wives regard as such.

One Representative said, at the time it was decided to reserve this gallery, that it was done so that the members could know exactly in what part of the gallery their wives were likely to be, so they would know which way to dodge if they whished to avoid their gaze. Some of ladies become much absorbed in watching the fate of the bills in which their husbands take an especial interest, and their faces show their chagrin or triumph in the course of the debate. One of them, whose husband had been suffering severely with bronchitis when he was forced to go to the house to look after a bill of great importance in his district, used to go there daily while there was a prospect for the bill coming up, and carried a box of quinine pills, and regularly sent from her seat in the "members' gallery," an affectionate note and a dose of medicine to her husband on the floor of the house when the time came for him to take it. Thus she strove to brace him up for the contest in the same spirit as Spartan wives equipped their husbands for battle. The day his bill was voted down she had waited for several hours with satchel containing the pill box in hand, and as soon as the vote was announced, which was against her husband, she rose indignantly, packed up the medicine and went home with lessened faith in its bracing effects.

The wives, of course, do not fail to watch from the gallery the demeanor of their respective husbands in their seats below, especially when cards are brought in to the latter. One lady will say to another : "There goes a card to your husband ; wonder if it is a lady or a gentleman wants to see him. There he goes out ; let's see how long he stays, and then we'll know whether it was a man or a woman. There he comes in again, so it must have been a man who was waiting for him ; he'd have stayed longer if it had been a woman, certainly."

While some of the incidents in this gallery are highly amusing, others are oftener very annoying. For instance, lately, a loving wife, who was listening intently to her husband's speech, heard a lady behind, who was evidently unaware of her presence, say : 'Is that Smith speaking again, now ? It seems to me he is always talking, and yet never has anything to say.'

An all-night session of the United States House of Representatiyes, especially when it is occasioned by a discussion which requires either political party to muster its full strength and causes a 'call of the house' to be ordered, and the sergeant-at-arms to be instructed to bring in absentees, and always has some ludicrous features outside the hall, as well as some productive of annoyance to the families of members of the house, as well as to themselves. During such a night session, not long ago, the wife of one of the colored Representatives was left alone in the member's gallery until a late hour, and all other occupants of that gallery having left at an early part of the night. She could not go home alone, and her husband, who was on the floor of the house, was locked in so he could not leave to take her home. It is the custom as soon as a call of the house is ordered to lock all doors of exit or entrance to the legislative hall, not only to prevent those members who are within from getting away without permission of the house, but also to prevent those absent without leave getting in except in the custody of the sergeant-at-arms, who has been ordered to arrest them and bring them to make their excuses at the bar of the house. It was not until the colored representatiyes could succeed in obtaining the formal leave of the house to go home with his wife [and he promised to return as soon he had done so] that he could join her in the gallery and accompany her to their residence.

What He Was Paid For.

I heard a very good anecdote from Chauncey Depew about Rutter, now president of the New York Central rail road. Commodore Vanderbilt picked Rutter up when he was acting as freight agent on the Erie railroad. He was paid $10,000 to go over to the Central and take charge of their transportation business. Rutter was a slim young fellow, with a ruddy face and a prematurely gray moustache, and he never got over being surprised with himself at his remarkable growth in the railroad business. There came up a decidedly knotty problem one day, not long after he took hold of the Central business. Rutter did not know what to do, and so walked into the commodore's office and stated the case to the old gentleman. Said the commodore : 'Jim, what does the railroad pay you ?'

'Fifteen thousand a year, sir.'

'What for ?'

'For taking charge of the transportation business.'

'Well, then, it we pay you for that why do you come to me ? Do you want me to earn your salary for you ?'

Rutter took the hint. He went right out, made a decision in the knotty problem, realizing that if he wasn't competent for the duties the company would make short work with him, and if he was competent it required difficult problems like that in question to show his competency. From that time until he became president of the great corporation he never asked anybody's advice about his action. He did what he did shouldering the responsibility and expected to stand or fall by it. So it happens that this man is now president of one of the greatest corporations in the world.

A Square Boy.

Two or three weeks ago a pedestrian who was passing a house on Riopelle street heard the sounds of a terrific struggle going on, and as he looked in at the front door a boy about twelve years of age, who sat in the hall, quietly obseaved :

"It's only the old folks having a little row, stranger."

"Do they have 'em often ?" asked the man.

"Almost every day."

"If I were in your place I'd stand at the door here and charge ten cents admission fee. It's worth the money to see a family riot like this, and you might as well make a few dollars as to let the chances slip."

The boy said he would think of it, and the pedestrian waited until the man had choked the woman as black as a plum and then passed on. Yesterday he chanced that way again, and there was another row going on, and the same boy sat on the door-step.

"I'll see the show," said the man, as he pulled out his wallet. "Has it profited you ?"

"Stranger, I can't take your money," replied the lad.

"Why ?"

"Because I'm a square by. For a week or so every fight in there was as square as a dice and worth the price of admission, but as soon as a crowd began to come and the gate money began to run up to eighty or ninety cents, dad and mam began to hippodrome on the public. That blood on his nose was put there half an hour ago, and mam's black eye is three weeks old. They want me to stand in with them and deceive the public, but I can't do it. Let the best man win or quit the business, is my motto. Pass on stranger, for this is a put up job to gull the confiding public."—Detrort Free Press.

The bones and teeth of some unknown animal were recently discovered near the Genesee river. One of the teeth was three and one-half inches long and two and one-half inches wide across the crown.

Daniel's Mean Trick.

'I knew I'd bring her up here later or or sooner,' he said to the Captain at the Central Station, as an officer walked him in.

He was mud from head to foot, he limped on his left leg, and the offer of a cent would have set him crying like a lost child.

'What's the matter with you ?' asked the Captain.

'Nothin', only if you have got any grim-faced death around here, you can bring it on as soon as you please. I'm broke up, cleaned out and ready to become a cherub.

There was silence as the blotter was brought out and a pen hunted up, and when they asked his name, he walked out :

'Put me down as Abraham Lyons, deceased, for I don't want to liye any longer. I never expected to live to have a son like Daniel go back on me in this way.'

'What's the matter with Daniel ?'

'Gentlemen,' he replied as he laid a hand ornamented with seven warts on the desk, 'I'm a widderer, and Daniel is my only son. Last night I was to have been married to the cutest, chunkiest, sassiest little widder in Wayne county. I was so happy that I'd haye sold my last pair of socks to pay outlawed debts. I kinder trod around on air. I grinned at everything and everybody. Hang me if I didn't take off my hat three times to a cow and hoped her family was as well as could be expected with the bottom knocked out of the milkpail market.'

'Well !'

'Well, I sent Daniel over to see whether I should wear a white vest or a black one, and what did he do but box his poor old father up ! Went right back on the parent who has stood up for him like a stone wall behind a briar bush. Went and wrecked his poor old father on the rocks of deceit and deception.'

'How !'

'Married her. Went and fell in love with the woman who was to be his step-mother and made her his wife. Yes, my own son whom I've sat up with in sickness and nursed through adversity. Who can we trust now ? Whither are we drifting ?'

He was locked up to sober up and let layers of mud dry, and when Daniel came down in the afternoon to see him he retired to the darkest corner of his cell and called out :

'Go way, base offspring ! A son who'll sneak in on his father as you did can never expect forgiveness. Have my funeral strictly private, and you needn't mind about a tombstone.'—Detroit Free Press.

Induced Him to Come.

During the high water a man was seen going down the Arkansas on a log. As he was passing Little Rock several men sprang into a skiff rowed out to the lone navigator and said :

"Climb in."

"Climb in whar ?"

"In the skiff, hurry up."

"Wall, strangers, I'm pretty well fixed. Don't take no work to move a-long.

"Where are you going ?"

"Down the river."

"We know that. Where are you from ?"

"From up the river."

"Of course you are, but—"

"What made you ax, then ?"

"What are you doing on that log ?"

"Travelin'."

"What do you want to fool with us for ? Don't you know you'll drown if you keep on in this way ?"

"Won't drown if I keep on this er way. If I was ter git off in the water I mout drown."

"How far have you come this way ?"

"I've come this way all er long."

"But where were you when you got on the log ?"

"On the log."

"Of course, but where was the log ?"

"In the river."

"Certainly, but how far from here ?"

"Ain't made no calc'lation."

"Where do you live when you are at heme ?"

"At home."

"Of course, but where is your home ?"

"Whar I live."

"Where is your family ?"

"Scattered er long."

"Did your house wash away ?"

"Sorter. My wife's back yonder on a cottonwood log, an' my son Bill's comin' along som'ers on a poplar."

"Why don't you come to the shore ?"

"'Cause it don't cost nuthin ter ride."

"You'd better come out and get a drink of whiskey."

"Dinged if I don't do it. Feller back here wanted me to come out and hear him preach, but he didn't have the right kin' o' gospel. Now, fellers, pull for the shore as fas' as yer ken."—Arkansaw Traveler.

J. C. MEYER, Secretary.

EX-GOVERNOR St. John, of Illinois, was nominated by the prohibitionists as their candidate for president. Now if Kelly, Butler and Arthur get through with the organization of their projected party we will hear of another ticket—something like Butler and Kelly.

IN looking over our city exchanges we find here and there items that are indicative of a democratic victory in November and for the benefit of our many democratic readers we copy below a few of them. This kind of literature is full of encouragement to the faithful democrat and we will try to furnish items of such a nature every week until the election of Grover Cleveland and Thomas A. Hendricks:

Hundreds of laboring men in South Jersey, heretofore republicans, have come out for Cleveland.

Wm. H. Vanderbilt says he will support Blaine, but is satisfied from the attitude of the independents that Cleveland will be elected.

The republicans are not confident of carrying Maine. The member of the democratic national committee from that state says that it is within the possibilities for Cleveland to carry the state.

Speed Against Blaine.

An Interesting Letter from the Only Survivor of Lincoln's Cabinet.

Special dispatch to THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, July 23.

James Speed, of Kentucky, who was Lincoln's Attorney General, is the only surviving member of that Cabinet. He was a Republican at a time and in a section when it cost much to be a Republican. He is one of the most esteemed men in this city and State, ranks at the head of the Kentucky bar, and, although not it active politics for some years, his influence is great with his party in the Southwest. Prior to the meeting of the National Democratic Convention the following letter from Mr. Speed, which will appear in to-morrow's Herald, was received by a friend of his in this city:

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 19.

MY DEAR SIR: I received your esteemed letter by due course of mail. The action of the Chicago Republican Convention has greatly distressed me. I am not at all puzzled as to voting, but grieved to be under the necessity of failing to vote for the nominee of the Republican party. It is shocking to think such a party could put forth such a platform. No more of that. But I cannot vote for Blaine and could not vote for him on any platform.

The foreign relations of this country are pretty much in the hands of the President. During the short time Mr. Blaine acted as Secretary of State he exhibited such a view of international law as makes me believe that, should he be elected President, if he would not plunge us into needless foreign difficulties he would bring our diplomacy into disrepute and make us the laughing-stock of the civilized world. No personal magnetism or brilliant sentences can compensate for such a blunder. To vote for him would be like voting against the peace and honor of my country. I cannot do that at the bidding of the Republican party.

Then his letter about the surplus revenue is monstrous. It shows him to be as unsafe in his view of the frame work of our government as he is in regard to international law. It is charitable to say the letter is the child of ignorance, for if not it is the child of demagoguery.

Now what can I do? May I fold my arms and let the world wag? Must I vote the Democratic ticket? Must I join a third party? As for a third party it is too late to organize one for putting out an independent ticket. The purpose of a third party organized now would be to defeat Blaine. It would of necessity perish, whether Blaine is elected or defeated and its members be like loose cogs in a machine, able to do no good, but capable of doing great evil.

Should the Democrats give the country a statesman and a gentleman as their candidate I think we had better vote for him. So you see, my dear sir, I cannot say what I may do, but am positive as to what I will not do. I am most truly your friend. JAMES SPEED.

THE organization of the democratic national committee was completed by the unanimous choice of William H. Barnum, of Connecticut as chairman of said committee for the ensuing four years. Mr. Barnum's experience in this work is well-known, having served in this position ever since 1876 with ability and the committee under his marshalship look forward to a victorious canvass.

WE received the prospectus of a new Democratic weekly newspaper, called "THE POST" to be published in Philadelphia, beginning August 1st, 1884, by W. U. Hensel, of Lancaster, Pa. The publication will have for its object the promotion of the election of the democratic presidential candidates and the success of the party in electing their Electoral, Congressional, Legislative and local tickets in the state. W. U. Hensel, its chief editor, is well-known as one of the most able journalists in the state, and the interests of the democratic party will be thoroughly and efficiently represented in the "Post." We advise Democrats, who desire to be informed upon the issues and news of the present campaign, to send the low price of subscription, 30 cents to W. U. Hensel, Lock Box "R," Lancaster, and thereby secure a copy of this promising sheet.

Commanding Calvin Well's Withdrawal.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—The Philadelphia Pressmen's Union, at a meeting last evening at Eighth and Walnut streets passed resolutions endorsing the action of Typographical Union No. 2, in boycotting Calvin Wells, proprietor of the Press, for refusing to employ union labor on his paper, and demanding his removal from the republican electoral ticket. If this is not done the members resolved to "use their utmost endeavors to defeat him at the polls."

LETTER.

Spring Mills, Centre Co., Pa., July 25, '84.

MR. EDITOR:—

As a report has been circulated through the country to the effect that the citizens of Gregg township are dissatisfied with the action of the present board of County Commissioners, we deem it our duty to say that such report is a misrepresentation of facts and therefore untruthful and has the object of deceiving those who are not acquainted with the facts. We believe that this false report is being used as an election scheme against Messrs. Wolfe and Grist. As citizens of Gregg township we do cheerfully and proudly say that we endorse the present board of County Commissioners, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

FIERCE WESTERN WINDS.

Fatal Work of the Great Cyclones in Wisconsin, Dakota and Minnesota—People Hurled to Death.

MILWAUKEE, July 24.—An unusually severe wind, rain and hail storm passed over Wisconsin on Tuesday night, making a wide track diagonally from the northwest to the southeast, and passing clear over the state. The damage to the growing grain is very heavy, and the property damaged already reported will amount to $100,000. At Jefferson, near Watertown, there was a furious tornado, unroofing many buildings, and doing great damage generally.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 24.—A storm swept over Western, Central and Southern Dakota and Southwestern Minnesota about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and Valley City suffers $100,000 worth of wrecked property, and a carpenter was killed and several other people injured, and workmen are actively engaged clearing the rubbish of the demolished buildings. The freight cars that were ditched at this place are on the track again. The breadth of the storm was from five to seven miles. Hail stones were as large as hen eggs, and dashed through the windows on the North side of the buildings.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN OBSERVES—

That the man who was sellling Blaine and Logan badges here last week was out of his latitude.

That the Rebersburg band picnic, while he was there on Saturday, presented the appearance of a grand success.

That everybody feels happy over the recent rains.

That the pleasant face of Mr. C. A. Sturgis, of Lewisburg illuminated the streets of Millheim on Monday.

That the candidates came "thick and fast" last week, and that they seem to enjoy picnics.

That democratic prospects are growing brighter every day.

That the corner stone laying of the Evangelical church on Sunday in spite of the inclemency of the weather was largely attended.

That the Aaronsburg festival on Saturday evening was a successful one.

That candidates Woodward and Harper kindly remembered the band boys with five dollars each.

That the parents should take more advantage of the schools just commencing

That the citizens on Main street would feel much better satisfied if a little less liquor and bad language were used on our streets on late evenings.

That H. B. Tomlinson presented a fine appearance in his undress parade through the mud after fish the other day.

—LAY THEM AWAY. We mean the horrible, naseousu worm-seed compounds called worm syrups and vermifuges; many of them are as worthless as as they are obnoxious. They have outlived their usefulness. People do not want them since McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powders, so easy and pleasant to take, can be had from any dealer. Everyone who has tried them says they are the nicest and best vermifuge ever discovered. Their children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Any case of failure to cause expulsion when worms exist the money promptly refunded in every instance.

—The corner stone of the new Evangelical church in course of erection at Millheim, was laid on last Sunday. The day opened with an overhanging sky, wind and clouds indicating rain, and eveybody, we might say, prayed that it would come in teeming showers, as the drought was beginning to tell seriously on vegetation. But notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather the people began to gather in from far and near and by 10 o'clock, a. m. the old church was filled to its utmost seating capacity. Bishop J. J. Esher from Chicago, Ill. then preached a deep and highly interesting sermon in the German language and in the afternoon at 2½ o'clock he delivered a sermon of equal edification in the English language to a large congregation which had assembled, in spite of the heavy rain falling at the time. After this discourse preachers and people repaired to the corner of the new wall where the stone was to be laid. The bishop deposited into the repository prepared for this purpose a copy of the Holy Scriptures, the Church Hymnal, Book of Disciplin, a copy of the "Christliche Botschafter," (the German organ of the church and the Largest German religious Weekly in the World) a copy of the "Evangelical Messenger," a copy of the "Living Epistle," the Evangelical Almanac for 1884, the Central Penna. Conference Journal, "The Millheim Journal," and an historical sketch of the founding of the congregation and the building of the church. The singing throughout the day was excellent, Mrs. Teresta Stover presiding at the organ. The amount raised on subscription and cash summed up to nearly $700. The building committee feel happy over the good success.

—ONE DOSE of McDonald's Great Blood Purifier or Sarsaparillian Alterative is guaranteed to contain more alterative properties, more truly remedial power than three doses of any other known alterative or blood purifier. Many other remedies are good enough in their way, only that you are compelled to buy a gallon of medicine to get a pint of remedy; the manufacturers having sacrificed strength and usefulness to palatability and profit. McDonald's Blood Purifier is put up in seventy-five cent bottles containing as much as most dollar bottles of other makes. Dissatisfied buyers can have their money refunded.

Mr. J. A. McDonald, Reedsville Pa.

The balance of the bottle went around among the neighbors. Since that I have written to New York and Philadelphia for the medicine but could not procure it. I traced up the bottle we had and found it was purchased of Mr. Jacob Ocwan, merchant in Altoona, and from him obtained your address. Please forward me one dozen bottles by express at once, as I do not wish to be without it in my family and wish to sell it in my store."

Cultivating Integrity of Character

There is a wide difference in the estimate of justice and right among men. Some have an instinctive sense of justice; others always have distorted or shaded views of right and wrong. The difference is not that there is an intention to do wrong, but that each has learned to view all moral questions from his particular stand point. Yet right and wrong are immutable. Each is stamped with its peculiar characteristic, and these do not change. Hence if different views of the maral quality of a given act are taken it is evident that one or the other is wrong. Hence a right view of justice and all the moral issues is a matter of training. How may it best be done?

We answer, by inculcating clear perceptions of the fundamental principles of right. These are simple and plain. It is right to tell the truth, to deal honestly, to respect other's rights and to observe the rnles of commercial morality. To injure another's reputation is wrong; and to despoil another of property, even if legally done, is wrong. The original, fundamental principals of right and wrong are simple and plain. It is when we observe them by special influences that we are befogged. There is always a special plea for an act of spoliation, whether of character or property. And, as a rule, there is a wlllingness to allow this special plea peculiar force. It is thus men's views of right are warped. By nice turns of expression, men convey a false impression, when they would scorn to openly lie. By shrewd turns they manage to complete a satisfactory business transaction, when they would utterly refuse to directly and boldly cheat. It is the indirections in morals that need to be watched. These are often dangerous.

When the minds of children are plastic and habits are formative these great principles can be solidly inculcated. And if wisely and carefully done, they will answer for years after. The best education a parent can impart is that which leads to integrity and character. A sense of right so acute that in all doubtful issues it will instinctively seek the true is better for a child than a fortune. It imparts the elements of character that command confidence, and in the main secure success. A rough, hard man in Australia came to the celebrated Henry Reed. He had managed to place himself on the pension rolls of the British army by fraud. He lived in a poor way on his pension. All his energies were blunted by his sense of wrong, and he did not succeed in life. Reed, hearing his story and his wish to reform, said to him that first of all he must surrender his pension, and that as soon as able he must return all he had drawn, principal and interest. The man did so. Under his relieved sense he was able to arouse his energies, and attained wealth and position.

There are many lives, like his, blighted by false positions, taken in moments of weakness, and from which there is not moral courage to escape. It is wise to guard children from it, and, inasmuch as contingencies cannot be watched, it is best to inculcate fundamental truths. These are like the polar star to the sailor, a guide amid storm and sunshine. All else can be made to conform if the essential principles are right. If these are unsettled we may as well seek to watch the wind as to keep guard over the well-being of children. Hence to instill integrity of character in a child is the best legacy that can possibly be conferred.—Ex.

Facts for the Curious.

The backs of many lambs were broken near Helena, Montana, during a terrific hailstorm. Hailstones picked up the day after the storm measured three inches in circumference.

Among the odd things made in England for the Indian and African trade are locks and keys which are solid for a halfpenny, and are worn by Hindoos and Africans as charms.

Queen Margherita, of Italy, has a set of lace worth $40,000, which has descended to her through several generations. It always belongs to the chief lady of the house of Savoy.

The annual loss by fire in the United States is about $10,000,000. It is about twice as much per inhabitant as the fire loss of Great Britain, four times as much as that of France, and six times that of Germany. At the average rate of production it would require the constant labor of about 400,000 men to replace the loss. The loss is nearly as much as the amount collected on internal revenue, and one third more than the annual interest of the public debt. The amount of premiums collected by insurance companies is considerably less than the loss, so that some insurance companies must fail every year. It is estimated that $3 per annum is collected for every man, woman, and child in the United States to pay for careless construction and negligence in guarding against the dangers of fire.

The latest things in clocks comes from Russia. It is a little timepiece about eight inches high on a base five inches in diameter, and covered with a glass globe. All the works are plainly exposed. The pendulum is a solid brass wheel supported at the centre, or hub, by a slender wire. It does not swing, but revolves from left to right and right to left. Being a 400 day clock, the winding of it is a small item. It will not vary five minutes in running 400 days. No temperature affects it.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic an Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent. profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents, and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every housekeeper, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear, and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or General Agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days, and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more that double the amount we guarranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to every one out of employment who will send us three one-cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will loose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money.

DOWNS' ELIXIR.
N. H. DOWNS'
Vegetable Balsamic
ELIXIR
For the cure of
Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Hoarseness, Influenza, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, and all diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs. In all cases where this Elixir is used its efficacy is at once manifested, convincing the most incredulous that is not incurable, if properly attended to.—At its commencement it is but a slight irritation of the membrane which covers the Lungs; then an inflamation, when the cough is rather dry, local fever, and the pulse more frequent, the cheeks flushed and chills more common. This Elixir in curing the above complaints, operates so as to remove all morbid irritations and inflamation from the lungs to the surface, and finally expel them from the system. It facilitates expectoration.
CONSUMPTION
It heals the ulcerated surfaces and relieves the cough and makes the breathing easy. It supports the strength and at the same time reduces the fever. It is free from strong opiate and astringent articles, which are of so drying a nature as to be in great danger of destroying the patient; whereas this medicine never dries or stops the cough, but, by removing the CAUSE, consequently, when the cough is cured the patient is well. Send address for pamphlet giving full directions, free.
Price 35 cts., 50 cts., and $1.00 per bottle.
SOLD EVERYWHERE.

DR. JOHN BULL'S
Smith's Tonic Syrup
FEVER and AGUE
Or CHILLS and FEVER,
AND ALL MALARIAL DISEASES.
The proprietor of this celebrated medicine justly claims for it a superiority over all remedies ever offered to the public for the SAFE, CERTAIN, SPEEDY and PERMANENT cure of Ague and Fever, or Chills and Fever, whether of short or long standing. He refers to the entire Western and Southern country to bear him testimony to the truth of the assertion that in no case whatever will it fail to cure if the directions are strictly followed and carried out. In a great many cases a single dose has been sufficient for a cure, and whole families have been cured by a single bottle, with a perfect restoration of the general health. It is, however, prudent, and in every case more certain to cure, if its use is continued in smaller doses for a week or two after the disease has been checked, more especially in difficult and long-standing cases. Usually this medicine will not require any aid to keep the bowels in good order. Should the patient, however, require a cathartic medicine, after having taken three or four doses of the Tonic, a single dose of BULL'S VEGETABLE FAMILY PILLS will be sufficient.
BULL'S SARSAPARILLA is the old and reliable remedy for impurities of the blood and Scrofulous affections—the King of Blood Purifiers.
DR. JOHN BULL'S VEGETABLE WORM DESTROYER is prepared in the form of candy drops, attractive to the sight and pleasant to the taste.
